Info (long):

The Anselm Krisch Trio plays American jazz with special attention to grooving swing. The repertoire includes many jazz standards, but also some original compositions. The pieces are arranged in the style of the 1950s and 60s, referencing the great piano trios of Oscar Peterson, Red Garland, Ahmad Jamal, Monty Alexander, Ray Brown and Christian McBride. The pianist -son of vibraphonist Dizzy Krisch- founded the band during his master studies at the 'Musikhochschule Stuttgart', which he completed with top marks in January 2014. The three young musicians aim to present an authentic jazz sound, to have fun playing together and to let the classic songs of the genre live on, while adding the freshness of the new generation.
